

Dear Sir/Madam,

To cope with the aging population of Hong Kong, I believe that the government must extend the retirement age to 60-65 years old. There should be a mandatory retirement scheme that applies to both public and private sectors.

The lifespan of an average Hong Kong individual has increased substantially since the existing retirement scheme was formulated ages ago.

I believe that the increasing the retirement age and implement it as mandatory will greatly help I'm solving the problem.

Sincerely,

Regina Santiago